

Books

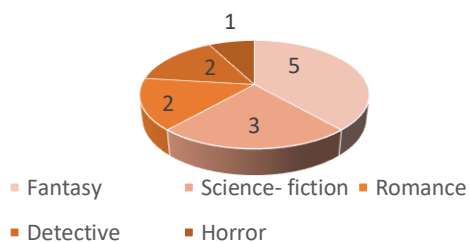

By Ūla Balčytė

The goal of this report is to present the result of the class books survey. The report contains information collected from thirteen classmates. The respondents were asked six questions about reading.

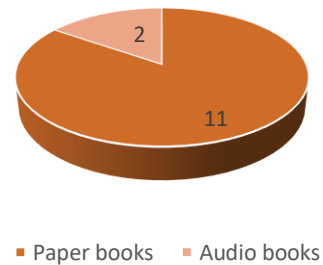

I was really surprised to see that thirty eight percent of respondents like fantasy books the most. Another interesting point is that most people prefer paper books more than audio books. It can be seen that more than half of students don't buy books. Only 4 students in my class like reading books as their hobby and others only read them for school. What is very clear from the chart is that one of the respondents' thickest ever read books has more than a thousand pages. Four people have read a book that has three hundred pages. A few respondents answered their thickest book has had about one hundred and seventy pages. The minority of respondents state that they don't have any books (not school books) in their room.

To conclude, my classmates should read more books in their freetime.

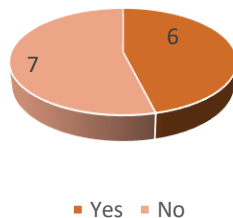

Which genre of books do you like the most? (fantasy, science-fiction, historical, romance, horror, detective)

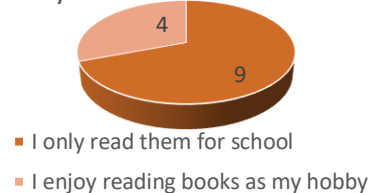

Do you prefer paper books or audio books?

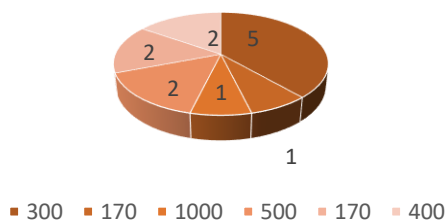

Do you ever buy books?

Do you enjoy reading books as your hobby/free time or do you only read them for school?

What is the thickest book you have ever read? (how many pages)

Do you have any books (not school books) in your room?

